Excerpt from The Story of Sensa: An Interpretation of the Idyll of the White Lotus; A Threefold Narrative; A Story of Black Magic in Ancient Egypt; The Initiations of an Egyptian Heirophant; The Tragedy and Apotheosis of the Human Soul

I am able to write of the Idyll as a critic and a student, not as its author in any sense, because I simply placed it upon paper in human language, as it was told to me in the mystical and universal language, when my personality was in the state known to the occultists of Southern India as "swapna" - obscurely translated into English by the words "somnambuling clairvoyance." In 1878 I was deeply engrossed in literary work which kept me constantly at my writing table, and from the window of the room I worked in I saw Cleopatra's Needle brought up the river and set up upon the Embankment.
